Mrs. Stevens, eighteen-year-old student at B. U. School of Secretarial Science, snapped on her way from court after she had appeared with Charles A. Jackson on a charge of misconduct.

B. U. GIRL AND YOUTH ARRESTED

Put on Probation After Being Found Together in a Dormitory Room

Miss Mildred Stevens of Franklin, N. H., eighteen-year-old pupil at the Boston University School of Secretarial Science, was arrested in her room in a B. U. dormitory at No. 84 St. Botolph street with Charles A. Jackson, of No. 30 Huntington avenue, who is described as a student.

They were charged with improper conduct. In Municipal Court they were found guilty.

Mrs. Stevens was put on probation for one year. Jackson received one month's suspended sentence.

The arrests were made by Sergeant Patrick J. Mortimer and Special Officer Hawkins of Back Bay Police Station. The police had seen watching the B. U. dormitory.

Just how Jackson managed to slip into the dormitory and into the girl's room without being detected, is a mystery to the police.

One theory today was that he might have climbed through a window. Another explanation ventured was that he might have disguised himself in the girl's clothing, at least to the extent of a girl's hat and long coat or cloak.

CHARGE OF COPS BEAT PRISONERS

Latter Probated by Judge, Who Orders Policemen Be Prosecuted

Judge William Sullivan of the Municipal Court today ordered complaints filed against Patrolmen Flanders, Baker and Garnett following charges of two men who were arrested Saturday night that they had been beaten up while on the way to the station in a patrol wagon.

"There is altogether too much clubbing being done by police officers," said Judge Sullivan, in placing the men before him on probation.

The two men, William B. McDonald, of Montreal, Canada, and Arthur Allen, of Columbus avenue, Boston, were charged with assaulting Patrolman Garnett.

According to the story told by McDonald and Allen, they were arrested after an argument with Patrolman Garnett late Saturday night.

While in the dark of the patrol wagon on the way to the station the officers in the wagon gave them a severe beating, they said.

McDonald received a black eye and lost a tooth.

COAL MEN INDICTED

BOSTON AMERICAN NIGHT

VOL. 19—No. 303 BOSTON, MONDAY, MARCH 12, 1923 2 CENTS WORTH IT

GERMANS SHOT DOWN BY FRENCH AS RIOTS SPREAD

Recklinghausen, March 12 (By The Associated Press).—Eight Germans are dead as the result of clashes with French troops in various parts of the Recklinghausen district last night. One French soldier and three Germans were wounded in a riot at Dortmund. A state of siege has been declared in the entire Recklinghausen district in consequence of these overnight disturbances.

3,000 SHOE WOMEN DEFY EMPLOYERS

In spite of posted warnings that absence from work would be regarded as a walkout and violation of their working agreement, 3,000 women strikers left their machines at an hour and a half today to attend a mass meeting of the strikers' local union of the new Amalgamated Shoe Workers of America.

The strikers announced unwillingness to make up lost time by working Saturday.

The meeting was regarded as a test of strength between the new union and the United Shoe Workers of America, but was ostensibly to announce to the Amalgamated members the intention by Judge Watt against violation of or interference with the agreement between the Manufacturers' Association and the United Shoe Workers.

7,000 IN NAVY FLEE OR QUIT DISGRACED

Washington, March 12.—Nearly 7,000 desertions and discharges "without honor" from the United States Navy in the last eight months will lead to vigorous steps by the Navy Department to check an apparent breakdown of morale among the enlisted personnel.

N. Y. BURGLARS MAKE $50,000 RUM HAUL

New York, March 12.—Prohibition headquarters were notified today that burglars had broken their way through the brick wall of a bonded warehouse on West 54th street and escaped with $50,000 worth of Scotch whisky.

HAVERHILL MAN SUICIDE BY GAS

Haverhill, March 12.—Joseph De-broski was asphyxiated at his home today. Gas was found escaping from an unlighted gas heater. The medical examiner pronounced it a case of suicide.

Additional troops have been sent to preserve order at Buer, where a French army officer and a French civilian official were killed Saturday night, and where excitement has since been running high, resulting in renewed shootings.

Of the Germans who met death two were shot down while trying to escape from the Buer disturbances. Five others were killed and several wounded an hour later when a crowd attacked a French guard post. The eighth German was killed at Dortmund when a crowd attacked a French detachment.

The renewed trouble at Buer broke out late last night when a small detachment of French gendarmes went to the house of a German suspected of being implicated in the assassination of the French officials. Two Germans who were found there were arrested. They were being taken to a guard post when, according to the French reports, they tried to escape and were shot.

Uproar in town. This created an uproar in the town and within an hour the Germans began pouring into the streets despite the commanding general's order prohibiting civilians from being out after 7 p. m.

A crowd assembled in the town square and soon afterward several hundred Germans, mostly men, attempted to storm a French guard post where seven or eight soldiers were stationed.

The Germans demanded the reason why the two men had been killed. The soldiers repeatedly ordered them away, but the crowd insisted to heed the warnings, the reports state, becoming more and more excited and finally attacking the house in which the guard was quartered. On being ordered, the soldiers fired, killing five of the Germans and wounding several others.

COAL WASTE OF CENTRAL MASS. STOPPED FROM VIEW

3,200,000 TONS OF COAL WASTE OF CENTRAL MASS. STOPPED FROM VIEW

Culm banks of the coal region, composed of yearly accumulation of waste coal, dirt, slate and rock, have been leveled down and sold as road fill. Mixed with a certain percentage of coal, this waste has been foisted on the public in the coal shortage.

The story of the culm banks makes another argument for those who contend that the government should control the production and distribution of the nation's coal supply. Investigators for the Boston American, who have been told from day to day the story of the culm banks, among the points of emphasis in these disclosures are the following:

These culm banks of waste coal, mixed with dirt, slate, black rock, ashes and bone is mixture of coal and waste, have been considered worthless. They cost has been wiped off the company books.

SOME 30 YEARS OLD.
The banks are from ten to thirty years old. They run up to 100 feet in height. They have not increased in recent years on account of waste in production being reduced by improved mining methods.

The stuff taken from the culm banks for marketing now is removed by steam shovels or gravity. It is shoveled or gravitated into mine cars and sent to the warehouses and breakers. A certain percentage of absolutely non-usable debris is dropped out. This leaves a "coal" which is either shipped as it is or mixed with new coal.

In the face of a "panic" market thousands of railroad cars, which could have been used to convey freshly mined coal to the markets, have been piled at points in the hard coal region to make space for coal or to partly filled with this "coal."

Protests of Scandal Ignored by Commission
Washington, March 12.—Despite a recommendation from P. H. Wadsworth, Federal Fuel Distributor, an independent investigation of the Interstate Commerce Commission after seven weeks has failed to issue an order to the Pennsylvania coal carrying route, forbidding them to sell waste coal to the public.

Nothing at all has been done to stop the use of waste by "insultable operators" for their great profit. The waste of the "coal" has been traced. Efforts have been made to suppress the waste, which even now is sold and produced no coal, but merely bays, shells and shales.

COST $2.50 A TON.
Best estimates show that the cost of handling coal from culm banks, through warehouses and breakers and to the consumer is about $2.50 per ton. Actual cost of production is about $1.25 per ton for this culm bank stuff. Actual cost of production is about $1.25 per ton for this culm bank stuff.

WHY YOU SHIVER.
Just this culm "coal" goes through with best affecting impurities that run double in the "market" product. These impurities are what have been making coal consumers shiver this winter.

Emile Coue's SELF MASTERY

Through Conscious AUTOSUGGESTION

Only Authorized Book by EMILE COUE

Conscious autosuggestion, made with confidence, with faith, with perseverance, realizes itself mathematically, within reason.

When certain people do not obtain satisfactory results with autosuggestion, it is either because they lack confidence, or because they make efforts, which is the more frequent case. To make good suggestions it is absolutely necessary to do it without effort. The latter implies the use of the will, which must be entirely put aside. One must have recourse exclusively to the imagination. Many people who have taken care of their health all their life in vain, imagine that they can be immediately cured by autosuggestion. It is a mistake, for it is not reasonable to think so. It is no use expecting from suggestion more than it can normally produce, that is to say, a progressive improvement which little by little transforms itself into a complete cure, when that is possible.

The means employed by the healers all go back to autosuggestion, that is to say that these methods, whatever they are, words, incantations, gestures, stappings, all produce in the patient the autosuggestion of recovery.

Every illness has two aspects unless it is exclusively a mental one. Indeed, on every physical illness a mental one comes and attaches itself. If we give to the physical illness the efficient 1, the mental illness may have the coefficient 1, 2, 10, 20, 50, 100, and more. In many cases this can disappear instantaneously, and if its coefficient is a very high one, 100 for instance, while that of the physical ailment is 1, only this latter is left, a illness; such a thing is called a miracle, and yet there is nothing miraculous about it.

Contrary to common opinion, physical diseases are generally far more easily cured than mental ones.

Butten used to say, "Style is the man." We would put it that: "Man is what he thinks." The fear of failure is almost certain to cause failure, in the same way as the idea of success brings success, and enables one always to surmount the obstacles that may be met with.

MATE WHO HELD BOAT IS 'PAD' BY CURLEY

Paris, March 12. (By International News Service.)—Isadora Duncan, celebrated dancer, who will be buried from entrance to the United States because of her criticism of American institutions, is still in her apartment today and sent out word that she feared she was dying.

"Tell them I believe I am dying," said Isadora's message. "America's persecutions have killed me. They say I can never become a citizen of the United States. Then if I die here I will have my ashes carried to America and scattered to the winds over that country. I will not say whether my dear husband (Serge Zenin) has returned to me. I can only say that our love is stronger than ever."

A report that Serge, who recently departed from his home in Russia, had returned arose from the fact that a mysterious man called upon Isadora last night and both attended the theatre.

LOOKS HOPE RING WITH KIDNAPING

Girl Who Stole Judge's Son Proves to Have Been Drug Addict

By International News Service. Albany, N. Y., March 12.—A Paterson, N. J., "dope ring" today was linked with the kidnapping of Leopold Minikin, three-year-old son of City Court Judge Leopold Minikin, in a confession of Angelina Tavano, nineteen, who was arrested late Saturday afternoon in Newburgh with the boy.

Police today are bending every effort to locate Joe Kenney, alleged dope pedlar of Paterson, who is charged by the girl with being responsible for the kidnapping.

Miss Tavano told District Attorney Delaney that Kenney followed her to Albany and "made me take dope."

Today she was arraigned in police court, where the former charge of kidnapping was made against her, she was remanded to the county jail until the case can be presented to the grand jury.

While the police doubt that Kenney had anything to do with the kidnapping, they are convinced the Tavano girl has been a dope addict, the police master at the station house, where the young woman has been detained since early Sunday morning when she was brought here from Newburgh, told Police Chief Leach that the girl's body is covered with marks of hypodermic needles.

KENNEY ELUDES POLICE.

Police have charged up on several Grand street addresses where the Tavano girl and Kenney was staying, but have been unable to find any trace of a man resembling the alleged dope pedlar, who said that Kenney once used the name of LaVene when he was operating in Paterson and East Paterson.

Despite all the stories the Tavano girl has told of being duped, several detectives who worked on the case are convinced a desire for a child of her own prompted her to abduct the Minikin boy.

Edna Schukis of Newburgh, who knew the Tavano girl when she lived in that city, has told the local police that the latter was the mother of a baby born more than a year ago in Paterson, but it died shortly after birth.

The Tavano girl has refused to tell the police whether she ever had a child of her own.

The defendants were arrested early last September while in possession of the infernal machine, which it is alleged they intended to plant under the royal car during a festival at the Hippodrome.

State Street Lawyer Held in Theft

GEORGE H. DILLAWAY.

George H. Dillaway, State street attorney, indicted for larceny, was arraigned today before Judge Blinn in the Superior Criminal Court. He pleaded not guilty and was held in $5,000 bail for trial. Date of trial was not fixed.

While the police doubt that Kenney had anything to do with the kidnapping, they are convinced the Tavano girl has been a dope addict, the police master at the station house, where the young woman has been detained since early Sunday morning when she was brought here from Newburgh, told Police Chief Leach that the girl's body is covered with marks of hypodermic needles.

FIGHT FOR FARRINGTON BOYS STARTS TODAY

MRS. RUTH STOKES FARRINGTON

The court story of the alleged book-throwing assault by her husband, to be told by Mrs. Farrington, will be corroborated by Mrs. Beattie Baumbach, a neighbor, who says she saw an eyewitness, Mrs. Farrington, will be corroborated in several details of the story, Philip, above, and Graham, by Mrs. Farrington.

For six years she was a punching bag, but she kept her head and her heart. She told me to get up and stay out of the house, I did."

Farrington, although an East Boston judge fined him $10 for assault, she will take first steps to obtain a legal separation from her husband, Philip K. Farrington, local representative of a New York paper, said.

The wife will ask the custody of two children, Philip, Jr., seven, and Graham, six. There lies the rub. Farrington is willing to have her get a separation, but he insists on having the youngsters.

FEARS KIDNAPING.

In fact, he told his wife that if she keeps them he will attempt to kidnap them. Which is why Philip and Graham are constantly in the house at No. 27 Shore Drive, Winthrop, where Mrs. Farrington is staying with her mother, Mrs. Edward B. E. Stokes, widow of the widely-known artist and art critic.

She abused me shamefully and I stood it from the time Philip was a year old to his last one with that catalogue," Mrs. Farrington said. "That was too much. It was much worse because he did it right in front of my friend, Mrs. Beattie Baumbach."

ORDERED OUT.

When he ordered me out of the house, I told me to go and get up. I would have left that minute, but it was snowing so hard. You recall that terrible storm last Wednesday, I agreed to be allowed to remain until the following day. Then I went. I took the furniture just as he said because my mother said it."

At Ruth's house when he came home," said Mrs. Baumbach. "He blew in just like a storm and my what he said. He ripped into poor Ruth about some old suitcase he had brought home with him, and when she said she liked it so much, he gave it to her. She took it very happy with it and her mother gave her the money to have it made into a suit."

HUSBAND WANTS DOBS.

ANOTHER SAVED BY MIRACLE

Captain Fred Chetwood

Vessels Arriving Today Report One of the Worst Storms on Record

One fisherman lost, another saved by a miracle, a third pitched backward into his schooner's hold by a boarding sea, and many lesser mishaps were reported by vessels arriving at the fish pier today.

The man lost was George Nickerson of the schooner Elsie B. Penney. His boy was caught in a squall in the South Channel, between Nantucket and George Bank, and neither the man nor the boy could be found when the squall had passed.

Captain Fred Chetwood of the schooner cruised in the vicinity of Nickerson's trawls for several hours but could find neither the boy nor the man. Nickerson was forty, married and lived on Blue Hill avenue, Gloucester.

DESPERATE FLIGHT.

In the same squall, a few miles away, the crew of the schooner Henshaw were tending trawls when the squall broke. George Thatcher's boy was caught when one of his sea boats and he was thrown into the sea. His plight was seen by men in other dories, but they could not get to him until the squall had passed. Thatcher, who is a strong swimmer, dived himself of his sea boots and alkeners and managed to keep alive until aid reached him, after the squall had passed.

Later in the day another squall struck the schooner while the men were darning fish. He was taken to the Relief Hospital on arrival today. There it was said that he was suffering from a badly strained back.

Worst blizzard.

Fishing skippers reported that the worst blizzard on record last Thursday was the worst storm they ever encountered.

Among the overdue steamships arriving today were two bringing coal from British ports, the British steamer Avonmouth from Newport and the American steamer Howick Hall from Boston. The former was a week late and the latter nine days and both had encountered gales and hurricanes on the passage. The Norwegian steamer Tiansa from Christiania was also late in arriving, owing to storms and ice fields in the North Atlantic.

SEEK BOYS IN LYNN CHURCH ROBBERIES

Lynn police were seeking today two boys accused of robbing eight light houses in three Catholic churches in that city. Priests attached to St. Paul's Church, Maple street; St. Jean Baptiste Church, Franklin street, and St. Patrick's Church, Franklin street, one of the boys had been identified.

Investigation in the snow are the only clues. Powerfully noted two youths acting suspiciously around St. Paul's Church.

Chenault—Two men were hurt today in a rear-end collision on the Southern Railway at Pulaski, Tenn., caused indirectly by a wind storm.

'HELPING HAND' DOLL BRINGS HAPPINESS

THE HELPING HAND
Do Not Inquire Stamps. Letters Will Not Be Answered Personally.
No Attention Paid to Telephone Calls

In Hospital Four Years
Editor Helping Hand:
I am a little girl nine years old, who has been in the hospital for four years with heart trouble.
I have two dolls here but I have not been given any more. O. T.
had. I hope you may let me know how I can get one. I shall be so happy, because they will make my days pass so getting better.

DOES FANCY WORK
Editor Helping Hand:
I wonder if A. L. C. could save one or two of her fancy work magazines. I am very fond of making fancy things, but at the present time I cannot afford to buy any more.

From the BOSTON AMERICAN, MARCH 5

AMELIA LANCIANO
Little Chelsea invalid, whose was turned to joy by a kind reader of the Boston American's Helping Hand column. Above, is her picture and also some of the letters received in response to it.

LITTLE INVALID GETS DOLL SHE LONGED FOR

He could find "A. L." He said he was in a hurry, because in the middle of the "A. L." looking all day on a note without a little doll to mother.
The Helping Hand Editor was very happy, and he had "A. L." to write on top of a great big pile of letters, and he gave the beaming faded man, Amelia's name and all.
And he rushed off to the very nearest toy store for the biggest and fineststuffed, hand-knitted doll he could find.

And that was it.
IT OFFERED.
Within a week after Amelia's letter was published, seventy-five letters had come into the American of five offering things for "A. L." Some wanted to give her a doll, some wanted to visit her, some not to leave. All wanted to make up to "A. L." for having to stay in bed all day in a hospital while other children played in the sunshine outdoors.

And there were many, many other letters for the Helping Hand Editor.
For a worried mother waiting for a new little baby and without any money for baby clothes, there were scores of offers of warm things.
For another mother without any carriage to take her underweight little baby into the health-giving fresh air, there were offers of carriages, strollers and baby-buggies.
For a veteran nursing mother tired out in a hospital there were offers of photograph records, and so on.

CHANCE TO HELP.
If you have never noticed the Helping Hand Department, look for it today and every day on the editorial page below the cartoon. It

ASKED FOR DOLL.
And she wanted a doll which she lay in her cot at the hospital.

But there are so many little girls who want dolls, that when the writer to the Boston American noticed that some of the letters were so full of requests for dolls that he knew Little Amelia wouldn't want a doll very long once her case was known. So he put her letter in the paper and told her the doll asked for was here.

"But I think there may be something else coming in soon for you,"
he wrote.

WISH IS GRATIFIED.
That very same day, a man with a beaming face topped off an inquiry for the Boston American of doll, and demanded to know where

And what about Amelia?
Amelia is experiencing a little comforts during the day, and little disciplinary off and on.

the world who are the cause of a family,

Lynn "Society Cops" Resign as Result of Revel Probe

David Farnum and Samuel Bar-rocky, Lynn's two "society cops," surrendered their badges as special police officers today as the result of investigation growing out of the wine revel held at a Grover park residence February 15.

Chief of Police Thomas Burkes accepted the resignations without

The action of Farnum and Bar-rocky, who are unpaid officers, came after a special investigation committee of the Interchurch Union of Lynn had written Mayor would take the matter before the grand jury unless the two officers were ousted.

ADAMS CALLS FISH LAWS DISGRACE

"The fish and game laws of the State are a disgrace to the Commonwealth, owing to the botched manner in which they were put together and it is impossible to get anything resembling out of them," Commissioner William C. Adams of the Division of Fisheries and Game, told the committee on conservation today.

He was speaking on a bill making various amendments in the fish laws, the principal one of which would change the season of opening of the season in the time allowed for winter fishing.

The section he especially supports out of Winter fishing February 1 to March 1. This is done particularly for the sake of pickerel.
The bill retains the legal minimum length for pickerel at 12 inches.

was automatically limited to two years, and now it is considered matically.

NAB FAKE DOPE 'INSPECTOR' IN 5-MONTHS HUNT

Following a trail picked up five months ago that has led through more than a score of cities and towns in New England, Federal agents captured Joseph A. Bradley of Manchester, N. H., who is charged with impersonating a Federal narcotic agent.

Bradley was caught in Lowell breaking into a drug store. He will be arraigned before United States Commissioner Hayes tomorrow.

Federal agents say that since November Bradley has robbed drugstores of considerable morphine and cocaine, valued at several thousand dollars.

"Big Ed" Furey and Robert Lewis now awaiting trial in their operations against owners of liquor.
Armed with a false badge and credentials, Bradley went to drug stores owners and represented that he had been sent from the headquarters of the narcotic agents to examine their books.

Others he would spend several hours in a store checking up on the sales of narcotics and inventing false stock. Then after he had located the place he would discover several vials of morphine or cocaine missing.

Agent Henry L. O'Malley was assigned to track up on the operation.
"Inspector" O'Malley picked up the trail in Manchester and followed it to Fitchburg, then to Lowell, then to Concord, Franklin, back to Manchester, and then to Lawrence and Lowell.

WAINWRIGHT WARNS U.S. OF DANGER IN NEGLECTING AIR SERVICE

ASKS $25,000,000 YEARLY TO PROTECT OUR SAFETY

Washington, March 12.—Expenditures of $25,000,000 a year during the next five years for the army air service is vital to the safety of the United States, J. Mayhew Wainwright, retiring Assistant Secretary of War, declared today in his final report to Secretary Weeks.

Within two years, Wainwright ascertained, the air service will have on hand less than one-half the number of aircraft necessary for normal peace-time work and with the air-line industry, already extinguished, it would require a year to create the industry anew to produce material sufficient to meet an emergency.

Showing the importance of aircraft in war, Wainwright said the service should be strong enough to defeat any air force an enemy might bring against it. And when that statement, by itself, would not convince the service should have a "definite program which would insure the prompt replacement of aircraft for use in emergency. Wartime equipment could be met by increasing production."

At a certain point, he said, calls for an average expenditure of $15,000,000 a year for the next five years and an additional operating expenditure of $10,000,000.

If facilities are necessary, he declared, if we are to be prepared to meet a wartime emergency and at the same time keep alive the aircraft industry, ready to respond not alone to wartime demand but to the demand for commercial aircraft even to come within a few years.

Not alone in aircraft is the United States deficient, Wainwright asserted. She also is lacking in all other necessities of war.

In default of adequate provision having been made for the necessary elements above referred to that is, without having the necessary armaments and reserves of munitions and certain strategic materials, such as nitrate, tin, certain metal alloys and molibdenum, and the like, we shall never be prepared successfully to meet the task imposed upon us by a great war," he said.

Society Girl Finds Interest in Surgical Work in Hospital, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

HERESSES that are always beautiful and, too, romantic. Money bags. Yachts that are always "palatial." Magnificent country houses. More money bags. And gone that always rival the crown jewels. All of which is more or less the picture that the Sunday supplements give of society.

But what about "behind the scenes?"

What about the "blue-bloods" who, in their mannerisms, their aspirations, their fads, or even their professions? Oh, yes, they have them all—even the professions. Some don't have the money bags, or the yachts, or the jewels. Others have them. And others still have them—and are interesting, too.

Take, for instance, Miss Louise Fessenden, the second youngest daughter of the Sewall H. Fessenden, who have a town house on Raleigh street, a North Shore place at Macaula, and an intermediate house in Chestnut Hill.

Yet every single morning Miss Fessenden does duty in the surgical clinic of the Children's Hospital. Don't misunderstand me—she's really serious about it. She doesn't do it because it's "fashion." She does it because she wants to. She enjoys it.

By rights, I suppose, Miss Fessenden should be one of those tall, statuesque girls invariably labeled as "holocausts." Louise Fessenden is not only photogenic, but extremely dainty little thing. She has soft blonde hair, very dark lashes, gray-blue eyes, a rather sunny nose, and she's slender and not over-muscular build. Hardly the type one can imagine attending at surgical operations, is it?

Miss Fessenden isn't a social "hermit." She goes to all girls' do, but I rather suspect she enjoys her hours at the Children's Hospital more than any other of the twenty-four.

A PROPOS of Miss Fessenden—she is on the committee which is in charge of the Children's Hospital Day to be held at the Brookline Town Hall on Wednesday of this week.

It's an almsday affair, the proceeds to raise funds for establishing a Brookline Chestnut Hill hospital. The day starts with a four-flower sale in the morning, followed by bridge and Mah Jongg in the afternoon, and closing with a cabaret from 8:30 until midnight. I understand that various talented members of the younger set are to inject no end of "pop" into the cabaret, which will be followed by general dancing.

Mrs. Hester I. Bigelow, Jr., is cabaret chairman, while tickets for the cabaret and dance may be obtained from Mrs. Gordon King of No. 145 Middlesex road, Chestnut Hill.

Quite a few matrons out Brookline and Chestnut Hill way are in the dinner parties preceding the affair, which promises to lack for nothing in the way of smartness.

THERE are others, too, whose names adorn the pages of the Social Register who find interesting things to do.

Take Miss—but that, I am afraid, will have to wait until tomorrow.

VON MUELLER, ALLIES CHARGE OF THE RAIDER GERMAN SHIPS EMDEN, DEAD TO U. S. BILL

Berlin, March 12 (By International News Service).—Lieutenant Von Mueller, commander of the German cruiser Emden, the most famous of Germany's warlike commerce raiders, died today at Brunschwitz.

The cruise of the raider Emden, which ended in her destruction by the Australian cruiser Sydney, in November, 1914, began a few days after the outbreak of hostilities, and in three months of roaming the Indian ocean she destroyed British shipping valued at from $5,000,000 to $10,000,000.

Captain Von Mueller's most daring feat was at Fremantle, on the Western coast, where he sank the 10,000-ton Japanese liner, the Asahi, and a British merchant ship, the Eborac, and a French destroyer. He then succeeded by speed and skill so skilfully that he escaped unscathed.

All his operations were marked by strict observance of the rules of engaged warfare.

PUPILS MARCH TO SAFETY AT SCHOOL FIRE

Manchester, March 12.—A fire of suspicious origin, the second in three weeks, threatened the lives of 106 pupils of Green street school and caused property loss of $16,000 today.

The outbreak of Miss Alice Odlin, the principal, and three teachers, Mary Cronin, Alice Morrison and Elizabeth Roddy, prevented loss of life. Arthur Livermore, the janitor, discovered a blaze in the attic shortly before noon. Less than five minutes later the upper stories were a mass of flames. The building, a four-story wooden structure, burned like tinder.

Miss Odlin sounded the fire alarm. The teachers marshaled their charges. They marched out without the slightest sign of disorder, although the clouds of smoke were swirling through the halls and the roar and crackle of flames drowned the sounds of their footsteps.

All of the pupils were outside the school in one minute and a half after the alarm was turned in.

The flames spread with such rapidity that the teachers sent the children out into the snow without their outer wraps.

Assistant Chief Frank C. Carpenter of the Fire Department, a visitor here, was badly burned while fighting fire in the basement of the American Clothing Company. They were rescued by companions. Among those overcome was Captain Eugene Hickey.

The cause of the fire which spread to the adjoining clock store of Mrs. Minnie Stinson, is under investigation. Smoke filled the two stores, located on Exchange block.

IRREGULARS BEATEN IN DONEGAL BATTLE

Dublin, March 12.—Irish militia attacked the military barracks at Crea, County Donegal. The band was repulsed after a fierce engagement, in which Lieutenant Cannon of the Free State army was killed. Free State troops at Waterford took over the gas works after Bolshevik workers had hoisted the red flag. The workmen quit, leaving the city without gas.

GREEK REFUGEE HAVEN BURNED IN SCUTARI

London, (By International News Service).—A British battleship and two cruisers are being withdrawn from Near East waters, the admiralty announced today.

Constantinople, March 12 (By the Associated Press).—The star battleship at Scutari, in which thousands of Greek refugees were housed, was destroyed by fire today.

There was no loss of life, but the misery of the refugee situation has been increased by this heavy affliction of housing accommodations.

It is reported that Greece has decided to permit the refugees to return home, but not to meet the expense of the transfer.

The Judge broke right into local society by getting a straw hat and a pair of shoes, and a new pair of shoes, and these parts. They observe the day of rest, and it took almost the whole Chamber of Commerce to pry a local haberdashery out of the Judge's hands.

Judge Emil arrived with an iron boiler pressed down over his raven locks and immediately concluded that it didn't fit into the story.

TIGER MAN MAY GET CLAWS CUT IN BIG BOUT HARVARD HOPE FOR STRONG ICE TEAM

Frank has beaten all opposition this year regardless of their size or standing. Only last week he was the only horse to beat the giant, who has been touted as the future world champion. He is the only horse to beat the champion of Marin Piestina and that husky has been very quiet ever since. He also holds the distinction of being the only horse to beat the champion to give an opponent a handcap match and then win to boot.

Other bouts on the card will include George (Farmer) Bailey, champion heavyweight wrestler of New York, who will be matched against a new man in the wrestling game. He is matched to mace Steve Bonicki, a former champion of the world.

In another bout all Hanned, the Turkish light heavyweight, will meet John Klinton, the Greek light heavyweight. These matches are all positive fights.

True to his promise Stanley Staszak, the Polish wrestler, was a caller at the Boston American today and said he was willing to take a $1,000 cash check conveyed as a guarantee of the fight.

Staszak made the following statement: "I agreed to throw Calzavara thirty minutes or I lost to him. I failed to show up for the match. I told my old lame excuse about my Chicago physicians who examined my knee wasn't sore. I say he had no feet."

If Calza will agree to meet Staszak in a finish match I will let my $1,000 go and I will bet and let the winner take the entire gate receipts. If, on the other hand, he holds me to my original agreement to beat him one fall in seventy-five minutes, the winner, Calza, will take the entire gate receipts just the same. The main thing I want is to get the so-called champion on the mat.

Gordon Robinson, Cambridge middleweight, stepped on the scales at Frank Shannon's gym on Hanover street.

"One hundred and sixty-five pounds," chirped Manager Kid Boney.

"Gus!" he immediately barked. "I'm ready to tackle any of 'em," replied Robinson. "When a week or more training goes by I'll be able to do 160 pounds."

Johnny Wilson can then have a fight if he is tired of my New York and his

As They Do in Utopia

By Les Conklin

"I WANT to see the president of this company," announced the stranger as he entered the executive offices of the Great Railroad.

"I am the president," said the man in the white suit. "What is your name?"

"My name is Les Conklin," replied the stranger. "I have just arrived from the State of Utopia, and I am here to see you."

"What is the charge against this man?" inquired the judge, as Horace Whinnikriss was dragged before the court.

"Assault and battery," Your Honor," replied the policeman. "He attacked a clothing dealer and knocked him through a plate glass window."

"I saw him go to say for himself," said the judge. "You were perfectly right, all right."

"That is indeed a terrible state of affairs, and we must not only it at once," agreed the president. "After the first of the month I will see to it that every commuter receives five cents from the company for every minute his train is late."
